From E. Valentine

E. Valentine came to Juneau in 1886. At that time the only building on the waterfront side of Front St. was the Franklin Music House, which stood about where Cowling's Motors now is.

Connor's Motor Co. and Calif Grocery at present would have been considered well in the wilderness.

At high water, small boats came to the board walk on the hill side of Front St to land pass and frt. etc.

In 1886, Capt. Carroll & Co. built the first dock--- which later became the site of Geo F. Forrest's Machine Shop (now) and that was considered 'well out of town'

In 1891 the People's Wharf was built and Valentine was manager and one of the principal owners. It was approached from Ferry Way at first then extended on around to come out between (Now 'Teen-age Alley) Face of the wharf was about where rear of Connors Motors and Fire Hall, (N. of)

In 1892 Capt. Carroll built another dock, known as Carroll & Murray's Wharf at first and later called the Carroll Dock later on. This fronted on Lower Main St. or about where the Alaska Coastal Dock is now. Shortly afterwards the P.C.S.S.Co. bought both Carrol Dock and Peoples Wharf ---paying $18,000 for the latter.

In 1907 the City built the first part of what is now the City Dock and in 1908 Valentine became Mayor and his administration enlarged the dock and started a coal agency and also induced C.P.R steamers to make this a regular port of call. About the same time (1908) Orson and Drange who operated a small fish house on the Carrol Dock, moved to the new dock and bought fish on the NW side.

In 1912 the Alaska Supply Co. dock, Juneau sawmill dock and Femmers dock were all built. Then in 1914 the A.J.Mine wharf was built. In 1917 the P.S.S.Co. (Admiral Line) extended their wharf S.E. erly to where the Juneau Cold Storage dock is now. Then in 1927 the Juneau Cold Storage Co. which had started with the Orson & Drange Fish house, purchased the first part of the P.C.dock and moved their plant to the new location.....

The A.J.Rock dump began in 1924
