Biographical Note

George Thornton Snow and Anna Edes Rablen Snow moved their two children, Montgomery and Crystal, from Washington Territory to Alaska in 1887 to perform in local Juneau theater. The entire family, including George's brother, Joe, and the children worked and/or performed in the theaters around Alaska and in Victoria, B.C. In 1894 they crossed the Chilkoot Pass to Fortymile. They built Snow's Opera House in Circle City, Alaska. In 1910, George and Anna moved to Seattle for Anna's health and when George died, August 25, 1925, Anna returned to Juneau where she died November 13, 1943.

Crystal Snow Jenne (daughter) served twice in the Alaska Territorial Legislature and also as Juneau's postmistress. Crystal married Dr. Charles P. Jenne, a Juneau dentist, and had three children: Corrinne, Phyllis and Charles (Bud). Later, Corrinne Jenne Kenway, Crystal Snow Jenne's daughter, served as Assistant Postmaster, Juneau.
