Historical Note

Lloyd Valentine Winter (1866-1945) and Edwin Percy Pond (1872-1943), of the firm Winter & Pond, were prominent Alaskan photographers. In 1893, Winter came to Juneau from San Francisco and entered a partnership with George M. Landerkin, known as Landerkin and Winter. In 1894, his long time friend E.P. Pond bought out Landerkin.

Winter & Pond operated their Juneau-based curio and photography studio for over 50 years, until Pond's death at age 71 in 1943. In 1945, two years after the death of E.P. Pond, Lloyd Winter turned the business over to Francis Harrison, who maintained the Winter & Pond Co. until it closed in 1956. [Portions from PCA 87.] Other Winter & Pond photograph collections include PCA 21, PCA 87, PCA 117, PCA 316.

Scope and Contents Note

The collection contains five publications from the Winter & Pond Co., dating from 1905 to 1915.
