H. Marion Thornton Photograph Collection, 1942-1945

PCA 338

12 boxes
ca. 1,939-1,965 photos

Processed: 1993, 1998, 2000
By: M. Kwock/ I. Spartz/M. Slemmons

ACQUISITION: Hilary Marc Thornton, son of H. Marion Thornton, donated the collection to the Alaska State Library in 1992. Evelyn Thornton, wife of H. Marion, donated additional items in 1995. (Acc. No. 1992-018, 1995-044).

ACCESS: The photographs may be viewed, however, the images may not be photocopied.

COPYRIGHT: Request for permission to publish or reproduce material from the collection should be discussed with the Librarian.

PROCESSING: The collection was processed in three phases as photographs were delivered to the library in 1992 and in 1995. In 1999, new prints were made from many of the negatives in the collection. Some prints duplicated others in the collection and in some cases, photos were identified with information found on the negative sleeves. At this time, the collection was slightly reorganized as identical photographs with separate numbers were pulled out and labelled as duplicates. Rearrangement also included gathering group images of similar subject together and in some cases placing them in chronological order. Due to the size of the collection, this was done only to a limited extent. An inventory was compiled at that time. Anne Rowland, Director of the Museum of the Aleutians identified many photos in 2004 [AR]

BIOGRAPHY NOTE

H. Marion Thornton was born December 13, 1919, in Blanchard, Washington. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II as an aerial photographer at Dutch Harbor, Alaska. He attended Western Washington University and eventually graduated with several degrees. Through the years, he worked as a high school teacher and counselor. While in the military, he took aerial photography courses at Pensacola, Florida and served as an aerial photographer in the U.S. Navy at Dutch Harbor, Alaska from 1942-45. Upon the end of World War II Thornton retained these training pictures for his personal collection. He died of liver failure on July 19, 1972.

SCOPE AND CONTENTS NOTE

The collection primarily includes photographs and negatives. Correspondence, stationery, photographic manuals, programs, newspapers and other papers relating to military life comprise the remainder of the collection. Photographs are largely of the Aleutian Islands, but they also trace his progress by ship from the San Francisco Bay Area north along the coast to the Aleutians. Using a Graflex camera, Thornton photographed camp scenes including inspections, social gatherings and interiors of buildings. Other views show wartime activities such as bombing raids, clearing airplane wreckage and hauling supplies. A large number of aerial views show Aleutian Island landscapes and volcanoes.

Box 11 Color Negatives and Negative Envelopes

This box contains color negatives and empty negative sleeves with identifying information, as well as black and white negatives of non-Alaskan subjects. The non-Alaska subjects include Western Washington College of Education.

Some empty negative envelopes have handwritten descriptions that probably match prints in the collection. Others have typewritten sleeves with dates that could create a timeline of construction on base; these probably have no relation to photos in the collection.

Box 12 Black and White Negatives and Miscellany

This box contains black and white negatives of Alaskan subject matter that Ron Klein did not print. It also contains a miscellany of photographic guides, a cartoon, a photo clipping and an ALSEC insignia.

This box also contains one sleeve of "film types" (8 different film types).
