Diary 7, 1903	Sept. 19 th september19and20	Worked in office all day – on Mt. McKinly -Sep. 20 th - In company with L. C. Larson, photographer, climbed the mountain on north of Valdez – he gave out and cam back but, like a fool, I went on to the top. Brush very bad for 2000 feet, and also great glacial furrows parallel to the general course of Valdez basin – these are extremely interesting & conclusively prove that Valdez glacier once extended to Prince Williams Sound & was at least half a mile deep. Was late in coming back & my boots were slick & I fell – many times & was so exhausted that I got into the brush again & could not find my way down – always on the edge of a precipice & having to travel along the glacial furrows: Finally I saw the fire Larson had built on the flats and heard him shout & guided through the darkness by his voice & fire at 9 oclock I reached the flats - & thence home in the boat.
	It was the meanest climb I have had – only 5,000 feet, but the glacial furrows, brush, ferns, grass, & perpendicular walls made it both rough & dangerous.

MIS 107 Dialy 7
	Went to see the Attorney General today. Found out that he was going to Florida tonight –so went alone.
	His private secretary Long informed me that he was out, but I asked if I might not sit down and wait for him. He D: 7.1004
Diary 7, 1904	said I might & I sat. In five minutes february06b	Russell, who has Alaskan matters in hand came in, and stood with me & talked and waited. Soon Long went in {to the Atty Generals room} and when he returned said that we – motioning to Russell and I – might go in – I offered to wait for Russell but he said no for us both to go in. I paid my respects talked of Alaska generally and the size of my district – Solicitor General Hoyt came in and we four discussed the climate and agricultural possibilities of Alaska. It seemed to me that Russell & Hoyt were purposely brought into the interview for fear I would undertake to talk "shop" – but I did not once give an opening for anything of the kind.
	He was very pleasant, and agreeable and but seemed to know nothing about Alaskan matters I was very well february10a	Went with Senator Foster to call on the President. He received calls in a cheap addition to the west of the Whitehouse, and connected thereto by a long low one story hallway.

	It is a poor brick and mortar quarters spread out toward the War & Navy Bld - and just sufficiently valuable and attractive to spoil with lawn. After waiting a short time we were ushered into a large plainly furnished room occupied by a large table (around which the cabinet gathers) and many inquiring constituents. The president was busy making the rounds from one to another trying to make the last one believe that he was just Senator Foster stood together, just before he reached us the President motioned them to go into his private office, where I accompanied them.

	Soon the President came in and we gave way to Senator Quarles who had his say and went out. I was introduced and we all sat down.
	The President is a strenuous and rapid talker, and began at once to ask questions and answer them.
	He was much interested in the big going through them I found a letter dated Febry. 1903, written by George Grigsby at Nome to his father, the District Attorney, who was then in Washington fighting me, detailing his success in fighting certain gambling cases in home. He frankly states that Marshal Richards aided him to fix the jury in both cases, whereby they convicted the gamblers. I exhibited the letter to the clerk who was assisting me in going through the record and asked him for a copy of it, but he desired first to submit the matter and he informed me that Russell refused to give me the copy on the ground that february13c	fact that it was enclosed in an official wrapper in the official files and in charge of the proper official and related exclusively to official matters. But he refused to give me the copy.

	I then requested him to retain it in his possession. The substance of the paragraph about fixing the juries was,
	"The Marshal aided me in securing the jury and stood in with me." Those are not the words – but the sense.
	Also called and Met Taylor the examiner who reported on Nome matters in 1902, and Asst. Atty Genl. Pradt. I intend to make a formal written demand february15a	Went to Dept. of Justice this morning ,	and called on Solicitor General Hoyt, and presented him this letter:

	² The Attorney General, Washington, DC.
	"Sir, In examining the papers on file in the department of Justice in the matter of the proceedings against U.S.
	Marshal Richards, at Nome, for contempt of court, on last Saturday I saw among them a letter written by Deputy District Attorney George Grigsby, dated February 1903, addressed to Melvin Grigsby, the district attorney at Nome, and devoted to a detailed report upon {the} public in that office at that place. The letter contains a state =ment to the effect that the Marshal had then recently at home fixed two juries for the prosecution by the aid of which the defendants had been successfully convicted, and as I desired immediately to address a commun =ication to the department of Justice upon that practice at Nome I asked the official in charge for a copy of the letter. He refused to give it to me upon the ground that it was a private communication. As the letter was in the public files, was backed as a public document, was from one public official to another and related to public matters, it seems not to be private, and I respectfully request that a copy be given to me for use before the department of Justice.
	Respectfully, James Wickersham District Judge of Alaska Mr. Hoyt immediately asked me what official had refused to give me the copy and I told him Mr. Russell. He went into Mr. Russells room & was gone ten minutes or more and returned.
Diary 7, 1904	He said that upon inspection he was inclined february15b	to agree with Mr. Russell that the letter was , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,	being from father son to father – "But", I said "the son is also deputy Dist. Atty. at Nome & the father is Dist. Atty." He answered – "Well you don't need it anyway – you have seen it and know what it contains" He admitted that it contained the expression,, of in effect, that my letter stated, and said "these people wont worry you much longer anyway" – a plain intimation that Grigsby is to be removed. In short he refused to give me a copy of the letter.
	He said, however, that the department appreciated the difficulties that I had experienced at Nome, that I had done a good work" &c – but no copy of the letter, though he distinctly admitted that the letter was correctly characterized in my letter. Upon his refusal to give me the copy I presented him with the original of which the follow

Diary 7, 1904	The Attorney General, Washington D.C.

	any statement to the department prior to the expir in Alaska with special reference to matters in my court, and at the time of its delivery I wish to make a brief personal statement as judge of the district court of Alaska. It is understood that the Attorney General is overwhelmed with more important matters, and cannot personally hear and {or} consider such statements, therefore I request that on Thursday, Febry 18, I may be per =mitted to meet Solicitor General Hoyt and Asst. Attorney General Day, at the department, and deliver to them person -ally the communication and statement suggested.

	I also request that Mr. Russell, and Mr. Taylor, special examiner, be present, and also a stenographer to take such questions as may be asked me and my answers thereto.
	Will you kindly notify me at your earliest convenience if my request is granted. Respectfully, James Wickersham, District Judge Alaska.
	Mr. Hoyt read the letter and promptly assured

	I thanked him and left the department.

	Jesse Noble did all blazing

	April 20, James Wickersham 1904: All four of my posts on No 1. Bench Cl. off Discovery are standing O.K. writing clear and legible.
	Went over this afternoon to Willigs on No. 2. Above – to pan & with his consent given yesterday took Jesse Noble along to assist in doing the panning – but he refused today to permit Noble to go into the mine. Could do nothing anyway as the mine was too warm from the fire – to thaw – but will go over in the morning & test the dirt he brings up.
Diary 7, 1904	Have concluded to do nothing until I april20gand21a	go in town – and probably not then.
1 0	I don't like the prospects or his actions.
	Manley came into camp tonight & brought my trunk. He had a hard time with the horses, from Faith Creek down.
	My trunk was a little wet – but not enough to hurt. Got some mail – Mrs. Dr. King brought it from Eagle – One letter from Debbie – she is not so well – one from Darrell scolding like a magpie, one from Walter Clark about politics in Wash. D.C. &c.

	Went over to see Hans Austin this morning he told me that he did not do the assessment work on the "Black Diamond" claim on Fish Diary 7, 1904	Went up to see Willig – we washed been made about his conduct – that I was informed that he had been consorting openly in broad daytime with prostitutes and had often been drunk, had visited the vicious low dance halls & had danced there, &c. &c. He admitted the truth of the complaints. I then told him about the friendship I had for his father – of Mrs. W's for Mrs. Claypool, his sister, &c. and appealed to him to quit his bad practices. But I also told him – he must go to work and do an honest april23dand25a	allow him for clerical aid over that amount.

	I hope this talk and arrangement will bring him up, and that hard work will keep him away from the evil road down which he is galloping.
	His conduct has been so bad that the decent women in the camp refuse to associate with him.
	But I cannot bring myself to dismiss him on account of his youth, his family and my hope that he will stand up and do better now.

Diary 7, 1904	Have concluded not to take up my

	So far he has no showing on any of his claims to justify the investment – and I cannot afford to speculate too far.
	Mrs. W s condition bids me be careful also, for I must have money always on and our Chena friends are knocking this town effectively on account of it. Diary 7, 1904 may31b In spite of the low water the "Isabelle" is plugging away – carrying freight & pass = engers from the Tanana to Fairbanks - Capt. Barnette is working night & day – 200 or 300 people are now here, & to my surprise they are coming to this town!! I really expected that the low water would frighten many of them into settling at Chena – but they are not. Several heavy firms from Dawson - machinery men – grocers & storekeepers are here and all others coming. Tents are going up — houses ditto, & every place is overflowing. The "Tanana Chief" came up today loaded, and every poling boat on the river is at work. – Several teams & wagons came & at last a farm wagon & good team of mules is to be seen in the Tanana valley. Diary 7, 1904 june 1st The people are still coming & the scare of the last two days is over – at first some of the new comers threatened to remain in Chena – but none did. The price of real estate is going up – - new buildings – new schemes, &c., and the news from the mines is better each day. Jesse Noble sold his half interest in Dis. on Cleary Creek & in No 1. above to T. G. Manley yesterday for $50,000.00 & this lets the speculation loose. The "Rock Island" arrived at the mouth of the Chena today but cannot come up Harlan & Heilig are aboard – Louis Lane came up this evening in a small boat – Fuller of Dawson, Louis & I will go out to the creeks in a couple of =engers from the Tanana to Fairbanks - Capt. Barnette is working night & day – 200 or 300 people are now here, & to my surprise they are coming to this town!! I really expected that the low water would frighten many of them into settling at Chena – but they are not. Several heavy firms from Dawson - machinery men – grocers & storekeepers are here and all others coming. Tents are going up – houses ditto, & every place is overflowing. The "Tanana Chief" came up today loaded, and every poling boat on the river is at work. – Several teams & wagons came & at last a farm wagon & good team of mules is to be seen in the Tanana valley. Diary 7, 1904 june 1st The people are still coming & the scare of the last two days is over – at first some of the new comers threatened to remain in Chena – but none did. Have just called Edgar up and told him he must either resign the office of town Marshal – or U.S. Dept. Marshal.

I believe him to be thoroughly honest and earnest – and he is a capable officer, but he cannot work night & day as ů , the combination requires, - then too he is so elated over his first little success in money making – out of his lot – that he swaggers a little – Also there are enemies who "knock" and take advantage of his holding two offices, and his weakness for drink to complain – possibly justly – about him – The Dept. would not sustain him Diary 7, 1904 He agreed to go and see the town authorities
