
Guide to ALASKA NEWSPAPERS ON MICROFILM

If you do not know a newspaper's place of publication, download the file "Newspapers Listed By Title" to find the correct place name.

The main information on a newspaper title is listed alphabetically by the place where the title was published in the document you are now reading. To find out what newspapers were published in a particular place, scroll to that name in the list below. The file "Chronologies of Alaska and Regional Newspapers" gives an historical overview, organized as a time-line, of titles published in a specific location.

Key to Newspaper Title Entry

(Explanation of the categories listed under each newspaper title)

Region: the larger geographic location for specific town or city. Designations are one of the following: Alaska (five regions: Northwest & Arctic, Interior, Southwest & Aleutians, Southcentral, Southeast), Canada and Out-of-State

Publication dates: range of publication; unverified dates indicated with "?".

Frequency: frequency of publication.

Editors: if listed in previous sources noted in the Bibliography, names are indicated, but list is not inclusive, especially for modern era.

History: references to beginning and ending dates, if located; related titles, and special historical notes.

Microfilm holdings: summary of range of holdings (beginning year to ending year).

Extent of holdings: degree of microfilm coverage: complete (100%-all issues); nearly complete (95%-99%); incomplete (0-94%), unknown.

Detailed holdings: issue-specific information; in a few cases, the information may not be available, if the microfilm was not inventoried. Also, occasional reference may be made to the condition of the microfilm or possible additional locations of issues of microfilm.

Holdings located at: the holdings for Alaska Newspaper Project libraries. Lists the library name plus locator numbers, if known. Many of the location codes are not yet assigned, but, if listed, the library should have the microfilm.

ASL: Alaska State Library, Juneau

UAF: Rasmuson Library, University of Alaska Fairbanks

UAA: Consortium Library, University of Alaska Anchorage

AML: Anchorage Municipal Libraries, Anchorage [does not assign location numbers]

N. B.: Holdings may vary among the libraries, since some newspapers were microfilmed at different times and/or at various locations; the libraries also may have purchased film from different vendors. This section includes warnings of notable variations among the microfilm reels.

Adak

Adak Daily Sun

Region: Southwest & Aleutians

Publication dates: ?-1954?

Frequency: daily

History: Date when publication began is unknown. Probably ceased in 1954. Published by the U.S. Naval Station at Adak. It was continued by the ADAK SUN (1955?-1976). On May 7, 1976 that title merged with the TUNDRA TIMES (ADAK: 1968) to form the ADAK EAGLE'S CALL (1976-1979). It became the EAGLE'S CALL on Jun 15, 1979 and kept that title until it ceased publication on Jan 24, 1997.

Anchorage Weekly Times and Cook Inlet Pioneer

Region: Southcentral

Publication dates: 1916-1917

Frequency: weekly

Editors: Harry G. Steel, L.F. Shaw

History: Began on Jun 10, 1916 as a continuation of the COOK INLET PIONEER AND KNIK NEWS. It was published through Jul 7, 1917, before becoming the ANCHORAGE WEEKLY TIMES AND ALASKA LABOR NEWS, when it absorbed the ALASKA LABOR NEWS (1916-1917). It then changed titles to become the ANCHORAGE WEEKLY TIMES (1918-1942) which was eventually continued by the FORTY-NINTH STAR (1946). These titles were concurrent weekly editions to the ANCHORAGE DAILY TIMES and its predecessors. Variant title for 3 issues Jun 17-Jul 1, 1916 was ANCHORAGE TIMES AND COOK INLET PIONEER.

Cape Prince of Wales

Eskimo Bulletin

Region: Northwest & Arctic

Publication dates: 1893-1902?

Frequency: annual (irregular)

Editors: W.T. (William Thomas) Lopp, H.R. Thornton

History: Began in May 1893 at the American Missionary Association Mission School at Cape Prince of Wales. It probably ceased publication with the May 1902 issue. Masthead motto: "The only yearly in the world." This nearly annual newspaper was issued by the teachers and students and printed at first by the hectograph process and later by hand-setting type in a press. The "most northerly newspaper in North America" was produced to teach writing, printing, typesetting and engraving skills to the Eskimo students attending the school. Compositors: Keok, Iyah-yung-uk and Ad-looat, also the engraver.

Publication dates: 1931-1933

Frequency: weekly

Editor: Adrian Clough Nelson

History: Began on Jan 18, 1931 and ceased on Jan 22, 1933. The WEEKLY HERALD was edited and published by 11-year-old Adrian Clough Nelson, with the assistance of his brother Philip, age 9, and Billy Moore, age 12. It had a circulation of over 350, including subscribers in almost every state and many foreign countries. Their inspiration was Thomas Alva Edison who had published a newspaper called the "Weekly Herald" when he was 15 years old. The WEEKLY HERALD was written up in "Time Magazine" and many other publications during its two-year existence. Additional articles about this newspaper can be found in the STROLLER'S WEEKLY, Feb 5, 1932 issue, the Feb 26, 1933 issue of the ANCHORAGE WEEKLY TIMES, and the Sep 1, 1933 issue of the ALASKA PRESS.

History: The chronology of the FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS-MINER title series, based on review of existing issues, is as follows: Began on Sep 19, 1903 as the WEEKLY FAIRBANKS NEWS (1903-1904?), though often cited as the FAIRBANKS NEWS. In 1905? it became the FAIRBANKS SEMI-WEEKLY NEWS, followed by the FAIRBANKS WEEKLY NEWS (1905?-1908?). Another series of editions published "for the creeks" between 1906 and 1907 (the TANANA DAILY MINER, the TANANA SEMI-WEEKLY MINER, and the TANANA WEEKLY MINER) appeared concurrently. Also beginning in 1905, a concurrent daily edition called the FAIRBANKS EVENING NEWS (1905-1907) was published. Its variant title was the FAIRBANKS EVENING ALASKAN for a short time in 1907. It then became the FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS (1907-1909). On Mar 22, 1909, the title became the FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS-MINER. While the incorporation of the word "miner" into the title implies an absorption of the TANANA MINER that was being published out of Chena, the TANANA MINER continued to be published in Chena through Jul 26, 1909, several months after the debut of the FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS-MINER. W.F. Thompson, formerly associated with the TANANA DAILY MINER, TANANA SEMI-WEEKLY MINER and the TANANA WEEKLY MINER of Fairbanks (1906-1907), and the TANANA MINER at Chena and later Ridgetop Crossroads prior to selling his interest in the paper, did, however, choose to add "miner" to the title of his new paper.

In 1910, it absorbed the TANANA TRIBUNE, to become the FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS-MINER AND TANANA TRIBUNE (1910-1912), before reverting to the title FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS-MINER. In the summer of 1912, the title became, once again, the FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS-MINER. Between 1920-1922, after fire destroyed the ALASKA CITIZEN plant, the masthead titles of both the daily and weekly editions became the FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS-MINER AND DAILY ALASKA CITIZEN and the FAIRBANKS WEEKLY NEWS-MINER AND WEEKLY ALASKA CITIZEN. On Mar 28, 1922, it began publishing again as the FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS-MINER, the current title. Additional weekly and tri-weekly editions appeared in the following years (mid-1920s). In Nov of 1981, a concurrent weekly mail edition called the NORTHLAND NEWS was established for distribution to rural areas.

Microfilm holdings: 1909-present

Extent of holdings: Incomplete

Detailed holdings: The first listing of holdings are based on inventory of microfilm held at UAF which were produced by an out-of-state commercial microfilm producer. The second listing of holdings at ASL shows only the range of years and not specific holdings except for the years 1909-1912. While it was not possible to inventory this title, it appears from spot checking that much of ASL's microfilm of this title, up until 1963, was produced from different issues and producers.

Each library that has holdings of this title may have reels with unique or more readable issues.

Microfilm at other locations, including those identified in the OCLC and WLN databases also may have been produced from different issues and producers and should also be consulted in case they include issues missing from another set.

Fairbanks Daily Times

Region: Interior

Publication dates: 1906-1916

Frequency: daily

Editors: J. Wilbur Ward, Fred Heilig, Arthur Bell, Roy G. Southworth, Louis Klopsch

History: Began on May 30, 1906 after having been published for one week with the title FAIRBANKS TIMES (May 23-29). Ceased publication with the Oct 31, 1906 issue. It was published initially as a concurrent daily edition to the already established FAIRBANKS SUNDAY TIMES, that began on Sep 3, 1905. On Nov 11, 1906, the FAIRBANKS SUNDAY TIMES dropped its separate numbering and was incorporated into the FAIRBANKS DAILY TIMES, appearing as the Sunday issue of that paper. Another concurrent weekly edition called the FAIRBANKS WEEKLY TIMES was introduced on Jul 14, 1906 and continued publication at least through Oct 2, 1916. According to an entry in James Wickersham's "A Bibliography of Alaskan Literature 1724-1924", (1927), p. 259, all of these papers had suspended publication by Nov 1, 1916.

Tanana Semi-Weekly Miner

Region: Interior

Publication dates: 1906-1906

Frequency: semiweekly

Editor: W.F. Thompson

History: Began in Sep 1906. Description based on vol. 1, no. 7 (Sep 21, 1906). It probably began as a weekly called the TANANA WEEKLY MINER on Aug 1, 1906, becoming a semi-weekly for a short period. By Oct 12, 1906, it had reverted to publishing as a weekly with the title TANANA WEEKLY MINER. Between Jun 1907 and Jul 1909, it moved to Chena, then Ridgetop Crossroads, and back to Chena under the title TANANA MINER (1907-1909). A concurrent daily edition called the TANANA DAILY MINER was issued for a short time in Aug and Sep of 1906 from Fairbanks. Another TANANA DAILY MINER was published for less than two weeks in 1908 at Ridgetop Crossroads. In 1906, it was a concurrent edition "for the creeks" to the FAIRBANKS EVENING NEWS. Related to the series of FAIRBANKS DAILY NEWS-MINER titles.

Tundra Times

Region: Interior

Publication dates: 1962-1978

Frequency: frequency varies

Editors: Howard Rock, Tom Richards, Jr., Anna M. Pickett

History: Began on Oct 1, 1962 and was published in Fairbanks through Aug 30, 1978. On Sep 6, 1978, it began publishing out of Anchorage. See also entry for: TUNDRA TIMES (ANCHORAGE). It ceased publication on May 14, 1997. According to its first issue, the TUNDRA TIMES was established to "serve with dedication the truthful presentation of Native problems, issues and interests." Under the editorial direction of Howard Rock, an Inupiat Eskimo from Point Hope, this influential statewide newspaper was instrumental in passing the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act of 1971. It reflected the concerns of Natives throughout Alaska and played a strong role in keeping all Alaskans informed on Native issues. An unrelated title of the same name was published in Adak in the 1970s and 1980s.

Editors: G.B. Swinehart, Gus B. Leach, George T. Ulmer

History: Began on Jun 25, 1894 and ceased publication in Feb of 1899. It continued the JUNEAU CITY MINING RECORD, and changed its title briefly in Feb 1899 to the DAILY EVENING RECORD AND WEEKLY MINING RECORD. On Mar 1, 1899, it became the WEEKLY MINING RECORD, returning to the title ALASKA MINING RECORD with the Jul 26, 1899 issue. Thereafter it absorbed the ALASKA MINER (DOUGLAS) to become the ALASKA RECORD-MINER (1900-1902). On Jan 13, 1902, a daily edition called the DAILY RECORD-MINER started up. It began a weekly concurrent edition in 1904 and eventually changed its name to the ALASKA DAILY RECORD on Sep 7, 1907 and published under that title until it ceased on May 8, 1911. The publishing history is as best as can be determined from the existing issues.

Editors: Dorothy H. Pegues, Lew M. Williams, Jr., R.G. Maynard

History: Began with the Jun 29, 1947 issue and ceased publication on May 13, 1951. It was the last in a series of titles that were related, beginning with the FORT WRANGEL NEWS (1898) and followed by the DOUGLAS ISLAND NEWS (1898-1921). With the Nov 24, 1931 issue, the title became simply STROLLER'S WEEKLY. On Mar 10, 1933, it changed titles again to the ALASKA PRESS (1933-1935), then became the ALASKA DAILY PRESS (1935-41), went back to the title ALASKA PRESS (1942-1947), and before finally being published as the ALASKA SUNDAY PRESS.

Juneau

Editor: John W. Frame

History: Probably began in Sep or Oct of 1904 and was published through Apr 4, 1908. It became the ALASKA WEEKLY TRANSCRIPT with the Apr 18, 1908 issue, later becoming a daily called the JUNEAU DAILY TRANSCRIPT (May 6-Sep 9, 1909). The Jan 14 and Jan 21 issues of 1905 show the year as 1904 incorrectly under the masthead. The ALASKA SENTINEL of Sep 21, 1905 states that "...the Alaska Transcript was one year old...". The Sep 6, 1905 issue of the DOUGLAS ISLAND NEWS also states that the "...Transcript is a year old". According to an entry in James Wickersham's "A Bibliography of Alaskan Literature 1724-1924", (1927), p. 254, the Alaska Transcript began on Oct 17, 1904.

Daily Alaska Dispatch

Region: Southeast

Publication dates: 1899-1919

Frequency: daily, then weekly

Editor: Ed C. Russell

History: Began on Mar 1, 1899. The last issue published in Juneau was on Sep 29, 1919. It then moved to Seattle and was published there from Nov 7, 1919 through Feb 1923 under the title ALASKA DISPATCH, which was then continued by the ALASKA WEEKLY (Mar 9, 1923 - Sep 28, 1956). In 1911 (specific date unverified), the DAILY ALASKA DISPATCH began to issue a concurrent weekly edition called the WEEKLY ALASKA DISPATCH that may have continued into 1919. From May 4-Sep 29, 1919, the masthead title was still the DAILY ALASKA DISPATCH although it was only published weekly on Sundays during that time. On Sundays between 1901 and 1906 it was variously published as the SUNDAY ALASKA DISPATCH (Apr 6, 1901-Jul 11, 1903); the SUNDAY ALASKAN (Aug 5-Oct 27, 1906); and the JUNEAU SUNDAY ALASKAN (Nov 10-Dec 8, 1906).

Juneau City Mining Record

Region: Southeast

Publication dates: 1888-1894

Frequency: weekly

Editors: Frank F. Myers, D. Davies, Otis Smith, G.B. Swinehart

History: Began Apr 5, 1888 and ceased publication on Jun 18, 1894. It was the first in a series of related titles and title changes that were published between 1888 and 1911. As best as can be determined from existing issues, they are as follows: ALASKA MINING RECORD (1894-1899), that was followed by the DAILY EVENING RECORD AND WEEKLY MINING RECORD (Feb 1899 only), which then became the WEEKLY MINING RECORD (Mar-Jul 1899) before returning to its earlier title, the ALASKA MINING RECORD (1899-1900). Next it absorbed the ALASKA MINER (DOUGLAS) to become the ALASKA RECORD-MINER (1900-1902), then becoming a daily in 1902 called the DAILY RECORD-MINER (1902-1907). A concurrent edition called the WEEKLY RECORD-MINER was published for an unknown period of time beginning in 1904. The last title in this group was the ALASKA DAILY RECORD that began on Sep 9, 1907 and ceased publication on May 8, 1911.

Daily Miner

Region: Southeast

Publication dates: 1906-1915?

Frequency: daily

Editors: Walter S. Coutant, A.P. Swineford, Bert Howdeshell, Richard Bushell, Jr.

History: Began with the Dec 16, 1906 issue and was probably published through mid-Sep 1915. It was published as a concurrent edition to the KETCHIKAN MINER (Mar 16, 1907 through mid-Sep, 1915). See the Mar 16, 1907 issue of the KETCHIKAN MINER for a detailed explanation. On Sep 18, 1915, the PROGRESSIVE announced that it had purchased the DAILY MINER and would "...issue daily under the name of 'PROGRESSIVE-MINER'". The actual masthead title of the first issue of the new paper (Sep 22, 1915) was the DAILY PROGRESSIVE-MINER. The PROGRESSIVE continued as a concurrent weekly edition taking the place of the KETCHIKAN MINER. The DAILY PROGRESSIVE-MINER ceased publication with the Apr 30, 1919 issue by merging with the ALASKA PIONEER to become the KETCHIKAN TIMES on May 1, 1919. That title continued through May 8, 1920. It was then absorbed by the KETCHIKAN ALASKA CHRONICLE (1919-1957?).

Editors: J.E. Rivard, J.F. Johnson

History: Began on Sep 22, 1915. It continued the DAILY MINER (Dec 16, 1906 through mid-Sep, 1915).

It was formed when the PROGRESSIVE announced in its Sep 18, 1915 issue that it had purchased the DAILY MINER and would "...issue daily under the name of 'PROGRESSIVE-MINER'". The actual masthead title of the first issue of the new paper (Sep 22, 1915) was the DAILY PROGRESSIVE-MINER. The PROGRESSIVE continued as a concurrent weekly edition, through Aug 15, 1917, replacing the weekly KETCHIKAN MINER. The DAILY PROGRESSIVE-MINER ceased publication with the Apr 30, 1919 issue by merging with the ALASKA PIONEER to become the KETCHIKAN TIMES on May 1, 1919. That title continued through May 8, 1920. Ketchikan Miner

Publication dates: 1907-1915

Ketchikan

Frequency: weekly

Editors: A.P. Swineford, W.C. Curtis, N.S. Gallentine, Bert Howdeshell, Richard Bushell, Jr.

History: Began on Mar 16, 1907 and it ceased publication on Sep 16, 1915. It was called the KETCHIKAN MINING NEWS from Jan-Mar 8, 1907. It was published concurrently with the DAILY MINER from Mar 16, 1907 through mid-Sep, 1915. See the Mar 16, 1907 issue of the KETCHIKAN MINER for a detailed explanation. It absorbed the MINING JOURNAL which had been published in Ketchikan from Jan 5, 1901 through Mar 9, 1907. The KETCHIKAN MINER ceased publication when the PROGRESSIVE announced in its Sep 18, 1915 issue that it had purchased the DAILY MINER and would "...issue daily under the name of 'PROGRESSIVE-MINER'". The actual masthead title of the first issue of the new paper (Sep 22, 1915) was the DAILY PROGRESSIVE-MINER. The PROGRESSIVE was continued as its concurrent weekly edition, through Aug 15, 1917, replacing the weekly KETCHIKAN MINER.

Nenana Daily Bulletin

Region: Interior

Publication dates: ?-1918?

Frequency: daily

Editor: Roy G. Southworth

History: The one issue of the NENANA DAILY BULLETIN examined was dated Mar 27, 1918. It began sometime after Sep 24, 1916 and was published at least through Mar 27, 1918, but definite publication dates were not verified. It was a concurrent daily edition to the NENANA NEWS that was published from Sep 24, 1916 through Mar 30, 1918. On Apr 1, 1918, the weekly NENANA NEWS became a daily, changing its title to the NENANA DAILY NEWS. It continued as a daily through Apr 2, 1921. On Apr 5, 1921, it became again a triweekly, taking the title once again of NENANA NEWS. (See entry for NENANA NEWS: 1921). It finally ceased publication with the Aug 2, 1923 issue.

Editors: David W. King, (Jasper Walrushorn)

History: Probably began and ceased on Apr 17, 1903. The “hottest” paper ever published in Alaska was written by David W. King (a.k.a. Jasper Walrushorn) who was also a reporter with the NOME NEWS. It appeared both as an insert to the Nome News and as a separate sheet supposedly “printed on asbestos paper and scorched at the edges”. The Alaska State Library, Historical Collections, has an original issue of this satirical paper that is printed on heavy paper of an unusual texture.

Nome Daily Nugget (1906)

Region: Northwest & Arctic

Publication dates: 1906-1918

Frequency: daily

Editors: J.F.A. Strong (Jun 11, 1906 issue only), Harry G. Steel, J.J. McGrath, F.W. Cobb, E.C. Divine, George S. Maynard, Richard Hatton, Charles Sanford

History: Began on Jun 5, 1906 as a continuation of the NOME TRI-WEEKLY NUGGET (1905) which is part of the family of NOME NUGGET family of titles. See entry for NOME NUGGET (1900) for more information. The NOME DAILY NUGGET was continued by another NOME TRI-WEEKLY NUGGET (1918-1919), before becoming the NOME NUGGET (1919-1934), a weekly, that was continued by the NOME DAILY NUGGET (1934-1937), then the NOME NUGGET (1938-present). It absorbed the NOME SEMI-WEEKLY NEWS in 1906. Several special mining editions were published over the years beginning with the Special Mining Ed of the Nome Nugget on Jun 11, 1906 that was published by J.F.A. Strong about the time he sold the NUGGET to Harry G. Steel on Jun 1, 1906. Other special mining editions followed in 1908 and in 1909 the MINING AND DREDGING EDITON OF THE NOME DAILY NUGGET began publication. It was "a yearly publication in the interest of dredging and mining." It was published at least through Oct 1916. The NOME WEEKLY NUGGET was published concurrently from 1908 to 1919 (probable end date).

Region: Southeast

Publication dates: 1913-1914

Frequency: weekly

Editors: J.E. Rivard & J. Frederick Johnson

History: Began on Jan 18, 1913 and was published in Petersburg through Sep 26, 1914 when it moved to Ketchikan. See also entry for the PROGRESSIVE (KETCHIKAN). It was published there from Oct 24, 1914 through at least Aug 15, 1917. According to the Sep 18, 1915 issue, "...the PROGRESSIVE purchases the DAILY MINER [Ketchikan]". The PROGRESSIVE continued to be published as a weekly while a concurrent daily edition called the DAILY PROGRESSIVE-MINER began publication. The weekly newspaper called the KETCHIKAN MINER was probably absorbed by the PROGRESSIVE sometime after it moved to Ketchikan and began publication there with the Oct 24, 1914 issue. The DAILY PROGRESSIVE MINER continued publication through Apr 30, 1919 until it merged with the ALASKA PIONEER to become the KETCHIKAN TIMES on May 1, 1919.

Region: Southeast

Publication dates: 1901?-1901

Frequency: unknown

Editor: Will A. Nash

History: Probably began publication in 1901. It ceased publication in late 1901, when according to newspaper accounts, the editor and his wife left Alaska. What little is known about the PORCUPINE NUGGET comes from the Nov 23, 1901 issue of the SUNDAY ALASKA DISPATCH of Juneau. It states: "The November 'Porcupine Nugget', edited and published by Will A. Nash has appeared....It is an 8-page production, printed on extra heavy book paper, profusely illustrated and has an attractive appearance generally....It is not a 'boom sheet', but is a conservative historical narrative giving the most reliable and valuable accounts of the discovery and development of this promising section."

Editor: Sam J. Callahan

History: Began on Aug 3, 1904. Suspended publication on Aug 7, 1907. Resumed publication in Tanana after a two year suspension. See entry under: YUKON VALLEY NEWS (TANANA: 1909). This title was then absorbed by the TANANA LEADER when editor Sam J. Callahan accepted a position there. The Sep 9, 1909 issue of the TANANA LEADER states: "It is unquestionably good business policy that the newspaper energy of Tanana be consolidated into a single working force...and [have] one well-supported and efficient paper instead of two struggling and inefficient ones." On Sep 22, 1910, the TANANA LEADER was continued by the YUKON VALLEY NEWS (TANANA: 1910) which ceased publication on Jan 17, 1913, according to the Feb 3, 1913 issue of the FAIRBANKS WEEKLY TIMES.

Editor: J.J. McGrath

History: Began in 1913. Date when publication ceased is unknown. According to the Dec 23, 1913 issue of the CHITINA LEADER, "The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Review is the name of a new publication being issued in Seattle with Alaska as a field for its activities. The Review announces that it will not attempt to take sides in any political controversies in the north, believing that the people who live here are the best judges of the conditions under which they live. 'Alaskans for Alaska' will be the guiding principle whereby the editor hopes to make the Review the great organ of the great north."

Alaska Times

Region: Southeast

Publication dates: 1869-1871

Frequency: weekly, then semimonthly

Editor: Thomas G. Murphy

History: Began on Apr 23, 1869, stating that "We throw to the breeze of public patronage today, the ALASKA TIMES, it being the first newspaper ever printed in Alaska. On the 19th of Sept. 1868, we started a manuscript paper called 'The Sitka Times', but the demand for it being so numerous, and the limited number of copyists we could find in our City, compelled us to suspend its publication until we could get a press". The ALASKA TIMES was published through May 14, 1871, first in Sitka (Apr 23, 1869-Oct 1, 1870) and then in Seattle (Oct 23, 1870-May 14, 1871). As stated above, it continued the SITKA TIMES (Sep 19- Nov 7, 1868). It was continued by the TERRITORIAL DISPATCH, AND ALASKA TIMES (May 22, 1871-Aug? 1871) that became the TERRITORIAL DISPATCH AND SEATTLE TIMES.

History: Began with the Dec 1887 issue. It was suspended between 1893 and 1894, and ceased publication with the Aug 1898 issue. According to the first issue of Dec 1887, it was "published monthly in the interests of schools and missions to Alaska." The issue also states that the paper came about from "...the present of a press, type and other material to the Sitka Industrial School...from the Sabbath School of the Boundary Avenue Presbyterian Church, Baltimore...". The last issue (vol. 9, no. 5, Aug 1898) published was a combined issue with the NORTHERN LIGHT (WRANGELL) (Sixth Year, No. 1). In this issue, the editor of the NORTH STAR, B.K. Wilbur, announces that it was being absorbed by the NORTHERN LIGHT (WRANGELL) and Clarence Thwing, editor of the NORTHERN LIGHT, states that "the union of the above monthly [the NORTH STAR] with the NORTHERN LIGHT

History: Began on Oct 20, 1876 and ceased publication on Jun 5, 1877. From its first issue: "With the view principally of according and furnishing early and reliable information, concerning the progress and resources of Alaska and of providing a medium for advertising for the numerous business men trading in the Territory; we have determined to publish a newspaper, and here present the 'SITKA POST' for public patronage". The last issue published (Jun 5, 1877) stated: "With regret, we are obliged to announce that the 'Sitka Post' ceases with this number. The withdrawal of the United States troops from Sitka, and as a consequence, the stagnation of business and general exodus of all whose means and duties will permit, likely to ensue, is the cause of the cessation."
